FULLMER LEGACY FOUNDATION

Our Mission

The Fullmer Legacy Foundation empowers underserved youth through mentorship, education, and physical wellness. Rooted in discipline, resilience, and character, we provide free access to structured boxing programs, life-skills training, and community-based support in a safe, inclusive environment at the Fullmer Legacy Center.

Utah Sports Hall of Fame

We had a wonderful night at the Utah Sports Hall of Fame induction banquet! Larry was honored to nominate and sponsor John Buck- a former MLB All-Star, good friend, and his grandson McCrae's baseball coach for induction this year. We also celebrated Wally Joyner, MaryKay Amicone, Stew Morril, and Holly Rowe as part of this amazing class of inductees.

"It was extra special to be there with family, Ted and Tanner Gurule (who are like family), and to have Aunt Karen (Uncle Gene's wife) and my mother Nedra with us. Gene and Don were inducted years ago, and it was a meaningful reminder of the incredible Fullmer legacy." - Larry Fullmer

We are so appreciative of the Fullmer Family and the legacy of the Fullmer Brothers , both in Utah sports history and in the lives they continue to touch today.

Spence Eccles

The Utah Sports Hall of Fame honors those who've shaped athletics in our state. The night's moment—Larry walking Spence in—represents more than an induction; it's a bridge between leaders who believe in the power of sport to transform lives.

🏅 Who Is Spence Eccles—and Why It Matters

Spencer F. Eccles is a Utah native, business leader, philanthropist, and lifelong champion of sport, education, and community. From his days as an All-American ski racer to leading First Security Corporation, and playing a key role in the 2002 Winter Olympics, Eccles has shaped Utah's story. Honored with the IOC's Pierre de Coubertin Medal and inducted into the Utah Sports Hall of Fame in 2017, his impact goes far beyond sport.

🥊 The Fullmer Legacy & the Spirit of Giving Back

At the Fullmer Legacy Foundation, we see sport as a powerful tool to build character, confidence, and community. The new Fullmer Legacy Center offers free access to boxing, training, mentorship, and academic support—providing youth with structure, purpose, and a place to grow. Our mission echoes Spence Eccles's lifelong example: invest in people, use sport to uplift, and stay committed for the long term.

"Honored to walk alongside Spence Eccles tonight as he is celebrated at the Utah Sports Hall of Fame. His commitment to sport, education, and community has shaped so many lives. At the Fullmer Legacy Foundation, we stand on shoulders of giants like him — and are humbled to carry forward that same mission in our boxing gym, mentoring youth, and offering hope through discipline and purpose." USA Boxing and Golden Gloves

Keeping the Next Generation in the Ring 🥊

At Fullmer Boxing, we're proud partners of both Golden Gloves and USA Boxing—two pillars of amateur boxing that ensure our athletes train safely, compete fairly, and grow in confidence.

As the home of the Rocky Mountain Golden Gloves, we carry on a tradition of excellence and community. Every athlete must be registered with USA Boxing, which covers insurance, certified coaching, and safety standards—but those fees can be a barrier for some families.

The Fullmer Legacy Foundation is here to make sure no child is left out because of cost.

Your donation helps cover registration fees, keeping kids in the ring, building confidence, and continuing the Fullmer legacy.
